

BOSTON TRADES DIKEEN FOR JACOBSEN AND CASH

'RAH NATIONALS! HAD CHANCE TO LOSE BUT STILL THEY WON

Upsetting of Precedent Greatly Encourages
Fans—White Sox Welcome Visitors.
Weird Trading by Boston Americans.

By THOMAS S. RICE.

Concerning the doings at the ball yard yesterday, they may be described as a narrow squeak.

Washington fans are becoming so accustomed to seeing their team start well and finish badly because of an explosion of the pitcher, or one or two errors in the last two innings, that they feel something is wrong, and look for earthquakes, blood on the moon, angels in the sky, five-legged calves, etc., when the Nationals triumph by 2 to 1, as they did yesterday over St. Louis.

Washington got both its runs in the fourth inning, after which the fans leaned back to await what they considered the inevitable—the forging of St. Louis to the front at the tail end of the game. In the fourth, Ganley singled, Jones fanned, Cross was safe on Yeager's error, and George Nill, a sweet youth of much promise, belted a single over second, bringing in Ganley and putting Cross on third. A wild pitch scored Grand Old Man Cross from third, and the day was won.

In the eighth inning, a pass, an out, and Ganley's dropping of a fly, gave St. Louis a run. That was a typical opportunity for Washington to hit the toboggan, but nothing fatal developed and we won. It was, indeed, one of the most remarkable games of the year—this one that the Nationals benevolently assimilated when they had such a grand chance to lose.

The Chicago world's champions are in our midst for four games, but as they left their diving suits at home they are unlikely to perform today. With the usual perversity of baseball luck, it is barely possible that Washington will split even or do even better with the champs. There's nothing like a tail-ender to throw the hocks into a pennant winner.

Anyhow, win or lose, we'll welcome an opportunity to look over the champions of all champions. It is their first appearance in Washington since their unexpected win over the Chicago Cubs in the world's series deprived four-fifths of the betting population of its ready coin last fall. There were some sharpshooters and people who didn't know anything about baseball—so they were told—who accepted the juicy odds on the Cubs as fast as they were offered. When it was all over, the stores which sell overcoats and other winter necessities for cash reported a great falling off in sales, while the credit houses did an extra fine business.

Still, most of us gathered a "Bennie" around about Christmas time, or dug up an old one that would help some—and we need them yet—so there's no hard feelings about baseball—so they were told—who accepted the juicy odds on the Cubs as fast as they were offered. When it was all over, the stores which sell overcoats and other winter necessities for cash reported a great falling off in sales, while the credit houses did an extra fine business.

President Taylor, of the Boston Americans, butts into prominence again by appointing Deacon Jim McGuire, of the New York Americans, manager of the Boston team. This means that McGuire has selected a hard way to make a living for a man of his advancing years, and that sporting editors will have to watch Boston closely to keep from being beaten on a story announcing that McGuire has jumped the job, for there is little likelihood that the aged one will be a permanent fixture in the Hub. His elimination may be looked for at any time.

What Mr. Taylor hopes to establish by his erratic handling of the Boston club is a mystery. Jimmy Collins, Chick Stahl, George Huff, Bob English, Chick McGuire—all managers of the same organization in twelve months. Stahl committed suicide, Collins became a nervous wreck and quit in the middle of the season, Huff lasted two weeks, and curled up in sheer disgust. Unlabeled announcements that he was more than glad to be relieved of the responsibility. What will be McGuire's fate? The old man has his nerve with him to go against that game.

Bill Dineen has been traded by Boston to the St. Louis Browns for Jacobson and $15,000. That follows the news that yesterday Boston traded Jimmy Collins for Jack Knight, of the Athletics. Of all the foolish baseball, this seems to be the limit. Knight is a youngster whom one of the brainiest, most patient, and successful managers the game has ever known, Connie Mack, could not bring to major league caliber. Jacobson is a lemon, pure and simple, a major leaguer who is going back rapidly and has been an absolute failure this year. How's that for strengthening the Boston team?

Dineen had a personal grudge on President Taylor because of Taylor's caustic comment on a game he pitched and lost, but he is still the classy goods, and would be a prize for any club in the country. Collins, despite the knocking

BILL DINEEN TRADED FOR JACOBSEN

BOSTON, June 8.—Closely following the announcement yesterday that former captain and manager, Jimmy Collins, of the Boston American League Baseball Club, was sold, comes the news that Big Bill Dineen, the famous pitcher of the Boston Americans, has been traded to the St. Louis American club for Pitcher Jacobson and a cash bonus of $15,000.

On top of this it was given out by the local club that "Jim" McGuire, the veteran catcher of the New York American League club, has been purchased by the Boston club.

McGuire will report in Boston today and assume the management of the club.

O'BRIEN HIDING FROM THE PUBLIC

Spitball Can't Be Delivered On This Field

By TAD.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Where is our wandering Jawn tonight?

A few months ago the newspapers were full of talk about Jack O'Brien, the Philadelphia "price" fighter. Jawn was out West trimming all sorts of millers. He was the coming champion, but like George Adair's wonder, something happened on the awning and turned out the sunshine.

Life was a long, long path of roses for Jawn then. They were telling about what he'd do to Jeffries et al., and what a great man he was. We wondered what would happen when Jawn would pass away.

Then came the big blow-off. Jawn confessed to a "Frisco" newspaper that most of his fights were fixed. They say the man he confessed to told Jack it was the proper caper, and that if he would he himself away to some foreign clime for a month or so, all would be forgotten and he would be a bigger man than ever.

Jawn took the tip. He is under a folding bed in some run town or other, thinking it over. We know not where Jawn has gone, but he is the original dumb, issue kid for the papers. We haven't heard a peep out of him for weeks, and it looks as though the human peanut will continue to wend its weary way along the path of silence. An open confession may be good for the soul, but gee whizz how they jump on a guy when he wants to be a good fellow and tell you that he strung you along.

ELI VARSITY CREW SHOWS GOOD FORM

Finishes Five Lengths in Front of Freshman Eight.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 8.—Short races between the two Yale eights and the two four-oared crews here at morning and evening practice kept the oarsmen limber yesterday, although no time work was taken because of rough water. This evening the varsity eight showed its best form since the season opened, defeating the freshmen eight by five lengths in a two-mile spin.

Another shake-up in the freshmen eight was ordered by Coach Billy Blair, who transposed five of the eight oarsmen. Wallis, who has been at No. 4, went to stroke, four strokes having been tried within a fortnight. As reconstructed the 1910 eight sat in its shell tonight as follows: Stroke, Wallis; No. 2, Captain Mills; No. 6, Hyde; No. 5, Wodell; No. 4, Austin; No. 3, Coates; No. 2, Hoyt; bow, Smith.

The four-mile course was staked out today by civil engineers, and it is practically certain that the varsity eight will be sent over tomorrow evening, paced for two miles by the freshmen. Capt. Bob Noyes, of the varsity eight, who resigned last February because of bad health, arrived tonight to assist in giving the finishing touches to the crew.

WAUGH CHAPEL TEAM BEATEN BY BETHANY

Waugh was beaten by Bethany in the Sunday School League yesterday by 6 to 2. Wolfe, a new pitcher, was on the slab for Bethany and held the opposing batsmen down to four hits. Sehorn pitched the first five innings for Waugh and delivered the goods, the only two runs made off him being due to misplays by his teammates. McLauren took Sehorn's place in the sixth, and four hits and two errors netted Bethany four runs in the sixth and seventh sessions.

The feature was the batting of Shedd, who copied three singles in four trips to the plate.

GRAHAM BEATEN BY MAX BEHR

Title-Holder Out of New Jersey Golf Championship.

NEW YORK, June 8.—A title-holder fell by the wayside when Archie Graham, of Paterson, was beaten by Max Behr, of Morris county, in the semi-final round of the New Jersey State Golf Association championship tournament, at Baltusrol, yesterday. The other favorite, however, Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, survived the day.

Although a winner, Travers failed to show anything like his true form throughout the day. His driving was wild and, in addition to this, there were occasions when he "fell down" badly in putting. In the morning Travers defeated E. M. Barnes in a match that was carried to the seventeenth green. After being 5 up at the tenth hole, the metropolitan champion got a bit ragged, with the result that Barnes was enabled to get back three of the holes, though he never became dangerous.

Later in the day Travers met Howard J. Gee, the Princeton champion. After the first few holes the former always held the advantage, and finally won by 3 up and 2 to play. Although not scoring well Travers had a number of good holes, which counted at match play. From a scoring viewpoint, the Behr-Graham match was easily the best. Graham began with a beautiful drive, fully 230 yards straight down the course, while Behr shied. The latter, however, laid his approach up dead and won the hole in 4 to 5. They halved the 300-yard hole in 3.

Behr was one down at the eighth, but he won the ninth in 2, making the match all even at the turn. Both went out in 36. Coming home Behr maintained the same fast pace, and as Graham developed a wild streak the affair was brought to a close on the fifteenth green, where the Morris county man won by 4 up and 3 to play.

Travers and Behr will meet in a thirty-six hole final today.

CURNANE'S WILDNESS LOSES FOR ALOYSIUS

By defeating the Aloysius club, 6 to 3, the Athletics tied St. Stephen's Institute for first place in the Capital City League yesterday.

Curnane, the Aloysius southpaw, lasted only two-thirds of an inning. In the opener he passed four men, hit two, and was touched up for two hits, five runs being made off his delivery. W. Handiloe relieved him and held the Athletics to one run for the remainder of the game, which was called in the sixth inning because of rain. The last four innings were played in a constant drizzle. Lord, W. Handiloe, and Simon excelled afield, and Priest was the only player to get more than one hit. He bagged a double and a single.

The score:
Athletics, RHOAE: Aloysius, RHOAE: Bishop, cf. 1 0 0 0; Hoff, cf. 2 0 0 0; W. C. 3b. 1 0 0 0; W.
